The Mietspiegel moderates the German housing market by providing a comparative rent benchmark

Mietspiegel in short

- The reform of the German rental index, called Mietspiegel (MSP), came into effect in July 2022 with the goal to preserve affordability to tenants in a predominantly rental market
- Mietspiegel legislation is obligatory for all communities with >50k inhabitants and the creation of it falls within the responsibility of the local authorities as well
- In order to determine the local comparative rent, a distinction can be made between the simple and qualified rental index, with a strong preference for the latter given that it carries greater weight in a court of law
- The rent index does not consider rents for subsidized flats with rent control, nor does it include the most recently built flats or flats in detached and semi-detached houses
- Since the Mietspiegel is based on historical market rents, its growth follows the market rent growth with a delay

Berlin – an exception to the standard rules

- A qualified rent index was envisaged for 2023 with the latest Mietspiegel dating back to 2021
- However, the process was delayed due to an award review procedure for tendering of the rent index, prohibiting the city of Berlin to provide a full bottom-up MSP in a timely manner
- In order to avoid a rent index gap, it was decided to implement a simple MSP for 2023 to bridge the gap before they return to a qualified rental index from 2024 onwards
- The simple MSP uses the Berlin Mietspiegel as per 2021 as a starting point and corrects for the development of the local comparable rent since then, allowing landlords to raise rents in due course

Detailed vs simple MPS

	MSP sub-method	Cities within Adler portfolio ¹	Expected time for update
Qualified MSP	MSP full bottom-up <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Based on local market data and calculated using comparable apartment rent levels over the last six years • The data must be representative and based on a scientifically recognized methodology • Must be prepared at least every four years with mandatory review after two years based on CPI-development or via control sample: 	Bochum Cologne Dortmund Wuppertal	Q2 2025 Q2 2025 Q1 2025 Q4 2024
	Two year update	MSP “rollover” based on CPI <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Based on backward-looking CPI no later than two years after data collection on the previous MSP 	Essen Q3 2024
	MSP based on market sample <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Update based a smaller control sample 	Wuppertal Q4 2024
Simple MSP	Less robust and usually considered less reliable by local courts in case the rental level is legally challenged	Berlin Duisburg Düsseldorf Krefeld	Q2 2024 Q4 2023 Q4 2023 Q3 2025
